Educational Transitions
for Military Children*

Overview of Services

The School Liaison Officer provides up-to-date educational resources and information to military families with school-aged children who are scheduled to PCS to Beale, are currently assigned to Beale, and are about to PCS from Beale to a new duty station.

These resources include providing:

- Nationwide kindergarten and 1st grade entrance age requirements;
- An active relationship with the California Office of Education and local school districts for seeking alternatives to ensuring qualified high school students from military families meet graduation requirements on time;
- Information for teachers, staff, and school administrators on how PCS moves, deployments, and multiple school transfers impact military children;
- Consultations with parents and children regarding academic achievement issues and concerns within the local school districts;

- Consultations with families and school officials regarding accommodations for school aged children with special needs (e.g., local programs, enrollment, IEPs, placements, etc.);
- Linking military families with educational resources such as school district rules and regulations, schedules, calendars, and lists of curriculum and activities offered, if available;
- A checklist of the documents required to enroll school-aged children into the local schools as well as those in the new receiving schools at new duty stations;
- Negotiations with sending schools and medical treatment facilities to provide copies of records for military parents to hand-carry to the new schools;
- Updates on current and pending legislative initiatives that benefit school aged military children;
- Negotiations with local schools to either hold additional try-outs, waive try-outs for students with records of previous affiliation, or extend deadlines for military students who transfer from other states and countries and wish to participate in school athletic and other extracurricular activities; and
- Links to educational websites and other beneficial websites with insights to initiatives that support military families throughout the world.

Academic achievement is the key to greater self-awareness and lifelong personal and professional development!

As a total force, we can ensure our children reach their highest potential and with as few educational transitional issues as possible.
